The 2010 State of the Art Conference on Postsecondary Education for Students with Intellectual Disabilities is sponsored by George Mason University's Helen A. Kellar Institute for Human Disabilities and the National Down Syndrome Society and co-sponsored by the Steve Riggio family, the Office of Postsecondary Education (OPE) and the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research (NIDRR), U.S. Department of Education, the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AACTE), the University of Minnesota's Institute on Community Integration, ThinkCollege, Association of University Centers on Disabilities (AUCD), the Lawrence B. Taishoff Center for Inclusive Higher Education at Syracuse University and the American Association on Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (AAIDD). It will be held on October 28 and 29, 2010 at Mason's new hotel and conference center in Fairfax, VA.

The conference will provide an opportunity for colleges and universities, researchers, program staff, parents and self-advocates to discuss the current state of policies, research, and practice in the field. Panels including staff from PSE initiatives, parents, students, and other experts will share effective practices during breakout sessions with an opportunity for group discussion.
